Rewrite the following text, so that Nick is the focus of each sentence.

The police had followed Nick all day. They had seen him leave his flat at 7.30 in the morning, take a bus to Regent Street and enter the airline office by a side door. He came out again at 1.00 and they tailed him to the language school where he usually worked. He stayed in the school until 8.00 that evening and then went for a drink with Maria in her car. At about 11.30 she drove him home. The police were still following him, but they had been exhausted by him.
